It was built in the Jiajing and Wanli years of the Ming Dynasty. It has been more than 400 years old and is a national key cultural relics protection unit .

Yu Garden now covers an area of more than 30 acres, and the park is known as the three famous stone names in the south of the Yangtze River. The past dynasties praised the Yu Garden as "The best beautiful view in the Southeast" and "Southeast Garden Crown".

Huangpu River Night View

With a total length of 114 kilometers and a river width of 300-700 meters, Huangpu River is a landmark river in Shanghai. It has the functions of drinking water source, shipping, flood discharge, fishery and tourism. It is the last one before the Yangtze River flows into the East China Sea. The tributary flows through the Shanghai area and divides Shanghai into Puxi and Pudong. On both sides of the Huangpu River, the essence of Shanghai's urban landscape is gathered, forming Shanghai's famous Bund and Lujiazui Financial Center and other important landmarks in Shanghai. The Huangpu River is one of the earliest artificially dredged rivers in Chinese history.

The Yangpu Bridge and the Nanpu Bridge across the banks of the Pujiang River are like two giant dragons lying on the Huangpu River. The two bridges and the Oriental Pearl Radio & TV Tower standing on the east bank of the Pujiang River form a huge picture of the "Two Dragons Play Pearls".

Shanghai Oriental Pearl Radio & TV Tower

The Oriental Pearl Radio & TV Tower is located on the banks of the Huangpu River in Shanghai and at the mouth of Lujiazui in Pudong. It is the tallest tower in Asia and the third tallest in the world with its absolute height of 468 meters. The Oriental Pearl Tower is a landmark building in Shanghai that combines sightseeing, shopping, entertainment, Pujiang tours, conferences and exhibitions, historical exhibitions, and radio and television launches.

Shanghai Yangshan Deep-water Port Technical Inspection

Shanghai Yangshan Deepwater Port Area is the first port built on a tiny island in China. It has a designed handling capacity of 15 million TEUs and is only 45 nautical miles from international routes. It is the closest deep-water port to Shanghai. Shanghai International Shipping Center Yangshan Deepwater Port Phase IV Terminal is the first fully automated container terminal in China and the largest intelligent container terminal in the world. The terminal is remotely operated by bridge cranes and track cranes, and with the automatic guided vehicles on the ground to achieve unmanned operation.
